President's Message

Ciao a tutti!

I have always loved the beautiful simplicity of January. December is a very busy month, and February is right behind it and equally busy. The quieter pace of the Club in January allows me to recover from all of the events in December and prepare for everything we have planned in February.

Of course, our Scholarship Crab Feed in mid-January was a huge success, as it always is. Thank you for making this such a wonderful event—not only for our Club, but for our future scholarship recipients.

This month, we will host two crab feeds, two birthday dinners, and a Celebration of Life for Rich Puppione. This celebration will be tied to our co-ed dinner on the 26th. There will be a special celebration in the Isabella Room before the dinner – see below for more details. Because February is a very busy month, I would encourage you to sign up for the crab feeds and dinner events online as soon as possible, since they are almost always sold out. In fact, the February 21 Crab Feed is already sold out as I write this newsletter.

A reminder that annual membership dues are now due. We no longer send envelopes. You may pay your dues online at the Club website, www.thecolomboclub.com, or mail a check to the Club and write “Dues” on the envelope. These funds are critical to the operation of the Club. Thank you for your continued membership and support.

If you have a friend who you believe would enjoy being a member of the Colombo Club, please consider sponsoring them. Membership applications are available online, or, if you are at the Club, you can scan the QR code and complete the application.

If you have an idea for an event you would like to see at our Club, or if you would like to volunteer, please contact me at the email address below.

I look forward to seeing you at the Colombo Club this month!

Ci Vediamo,

Joe Jianora, jianora1@gmail.com

The Colombo Club is honoring Rich Puppione by dedicating the February 26th dinner to his legacy. We would love to have those who want to celebrate Rich in this way to please come to the dinner and celebrate with us.

If you plan to attend the Celebration of Life before the dinner on the 26th, it will run from 5:30 – 6:30 in the Isabella Room. There will be a “no host” bar and an open mic forum to share stories of communion, fellowship, and remembrance of Rich. If you will be attending this event (the celebration, not the dinner), please email me the number of people in your party who are attending (so I can get a head out and set the room up appropriately) at jianora1@gmail.com.

Women's Auxiliary President's Message

We've had our Scholarship Crab Feed and filled the house with happy crab crackers with bibs on. We ate our fill of luscious Dungeness crab meat and linguine with clams. A boisterous crowd laughed and enjoyed each other (even if we could only hear the person next to us). It is always a good time. A special thank you to our cooks who put this all together. There are more crab feeds on the Men's calendar so if you didn't get enough just check out the website.

This month has a lot of celebrations. Ground hogs Day February 2nd, Superbowl on February 8th, Valentine's Day February 14th for our sweethearts (sorry, our dinners' been cancelled). On the 16th It's Presidents Day. On the 17th, 'Fat Tuesday', 'Martedì Grasso' or 'Carnevale' as the Italians call it. It's a celebration of wearing elaborate masks with feasts, masquerade balls, and parades with floats and of course lots of music with street parties dancing and confetti. Major celebrations are held in Venice in grand ways as well as Viareggio and Florence. Then on the 18th it's Ash Wednesday, the start of Lent. Our meeting will be via Zoom for February 18th. We will have a hybrid meeting in March then; we return to the Isabella Room for the rest of the year for our monthly general meetings. There will be a Celebration of Life for Richard Puppione held on the 26th in the Isabella room from 5:00- 6:30 with Chris (Rich's son) and Cindy (Rich's wife). No host bar and appetizers.

Next month we gear up for the Auxiliary St. Patrick's Day Dinner, where we have the McBride School of Irish Dancers come to entertain us during the cocktail hour prior to dinner. This is a well-attended dinner so make your reservations early please. See the flyer for more information.

I want to thank Mary Pandolfo for being our Reservation Queen over the past several years. She will be passing on the torch to another in this next dinner. We all appreciate your friendly voice and organizational skills and wish you the best.

Buon compleanno to our February born members.

Remember to let our Sick & Sunshine Ambassador, Elaine Kless, know if a member has been hospitalized or ill. Please call her at (925) 858-9245.

Remembering Rich Puppione

by Joe Ianora, Colombo Club President

Some people leave behind memories. Others leave behind a standard of service, of integrity, of showing up, and of doing things the right way. Rich Puppione left that kind of legacy. His passing has left an emptiness that's hard to put into words. We feel it because Rich wasn't just present—he was a pillar; dependable, consistent, and woven into how our Club operated. His absence has created a quiet ache for so many of us, because he meant something to so many inside the Club and far beyond it.

Rich's influence extended well beyond our walls. He was a steady presence across the broader Italian community. Known not only because he attended events, but because he contributed to them. He supported other Italian clubs, built relationships across organizations, and carried himself with the kind of consistency that earns trust over time.

Within our own Club, Rich served in more ways than most people ever realize. He was a Board Member, President on two separate occasions, and Chairman of the Board. He was also our historian and resident proofreader. He was someone who cared deeply about preserving our story and honoring the people in it. Rich didn't treat history like a collection of dates; he treated it like a responsibility. He wanted names right, details right, and stories told with respect, because behind every detail was a person and a family who helped build what we now call the Colombo Club.

Rich's commitment to the Colombo Club ran deep. He was a third-generation member, and his grandfather was a founding member of this Club. That kind of legacy isn't just something you inherit; it's something you live. Rich lived it with pride, humility, and a deep sense of responsibility for the people and traditions that came before him.

Not to mention, there were the countless "little things"—the kind of work that rarely makes a headline but keeps a club healthy: selling tickets, joining committees (it felt like he sat on nearly every one we ever formed), showing up early, staying late, and taking on whatever needed to be done. Rich had a quiet way of steadyng a room. He could be gentle and firm at the same time; always respectful, always focused on what was best for the Club.

During the COVID lockdown, that steady leadership mattered more than ever. When many of our Italian organizations were uncertain about their future, Rich helped keep our Club standing. He understood something important: places like the Colombo Club don't survive by accident. They survive because people choose them again and again through good times and hard times. Rich was one of the dedicated individuals who refused to let the story of the Colombo Club end on his watch.

For me, Rich's passing is not only a loss for the Club, it is personal.

I first met Rich while working as a VP in the Pleasanton Unified School District in 2020, where he became a mentor to me. Over time, he brought me to the Colombo Club so I could experience the "magic" of my Italian heritage in a way that was real and lived. Not just something you read about, but something you belong to. He encouraged me to serve, guided me into becoming a board member, and helped shape the path that eventually led me to this role as President. We spent a lot of time together over the years through functions and community events, and it's difficult to imagine the Club without him.

The first time I had to emcee after Rich passed, especially with his son in attendance, was incredibly difficult. After dinner, I sat at my seat on the dais and looked out into the crowd, and I saw Rich in everything: in the traditions, in the people, and in the unseen work that makes a night like that possible. I shed more than one tear then, and as I write this, tears are streaming down my face.

Rich gave this Club a lifetime of service, both seen and unseen. He protected our history, strengthened our foundation, and modeled what it means to lead with humility and heart.

We will miss him deeply. And we will honor him the best way we know how: by continuing the traditions, the work, the caring for one another, and the carrying of our heritage forward, together.

Riposa in pace, Rich. You will always be at the heart of the Colombo Club.
