

The Blind Sus: Common Restaurant's Hidden Gem Hosts Front Porch Improv for an Unforgettable Night

December 2019 — In the bustling heart of the Savannah Historic District, a secret was waiting to be discovered. Perched on the top floor of Common Restaurant at 118 East Broughton Street, the Blind Sus pop-up bar opened its doors for an exclusive evening of comedy and cocktails, featuring the beloved local troupe Front Porch Improv.

While holiday shoppers admired the festive window displays on the street level, those in the know made their way up to the third floor. The Blind Sus, born during COVID as a pizza pop up, and currently described as a "hidden" pub concept, offered an intimate escape from the crowds. With its industrial-chic aesthetic and "speakeasy" vibe, the space was the perfect backdrop for a night dedicated to laughter.

The venue provided a unique vantage point over Downtown Savannah, combining high-end bar food with a relaxed, exclusive atmosphere.

The highlight of the month was the special appearance by Front Porch Improv. Known for their quick wit and unscripted brilliance, the troupe turned the Blind Sus into a pop-up comedy club. The collaboration between a premier culinary destination and Savannah's top comedy talent created a buzz that rippled through the local nightlife scene.

Guests enjoyed signature cocktails and "elevated bar food" while the improvisers took suggestions from the audience, crafting scenes that were as unpredictable as they were hilarious.

This event highlighted the versatility of Common Restaurant as more than just a dining spot; it solidified its reputation as a multi-level entertainment hub. By hosting events like the Front Porch Improv takeover, Common and The Blind Sus demonstrated how local businesses could collaborate to create unique, experiential memories for Savannah locals and visitors alike.

As 2019 drew to a close, the Blind Sus proved that sometimes the best parties in Savannah are the ones you have to search for
