LIGHTHOUSE - Benoît Courault

Faye-d'Anjou, Loire Valley, France

Benoît Courault is one of the most distinctive voices in contemporary natural winemaking in the Loire Valley. Based in Faye-d'Anjou, Benoît trained in Beaune and worked alongside Éric Pfifferling at Domaine de l'Anglore, quickly earning acclaim for wines of striking purity and energy. His work is rooted in rigorous farming, deep respect for site, and a resolutely hands-off cellar philosophy. Today, his wines are among the most sought-after in the natural wine world.

Courault farms schist-rich parcels organically and biodynamically, focusing primarily on Chenin Blanc. Yields are extremely low, harvests are done by hand, and fermentations rely solely on native yeasts. In the cellar, there is no chaptalization, filtration, or additives, with little to no sulfur used. The resulting wines are tense, mineral, and profoundly expressive of place, prized for both immediacy and long aging potential.
