CAFE KACAO

COCINA LATINA

EST. 2011

At Café Kacao, coffee is more than a beverage. It's a daily ritual.

Our coffee program is built with purpose. Each drink tells a story rooted in heritage, memory, and creativity from Latin American classics reimaged to original creations that reflect our roots and vision.

We honor flavor and culture in every ingredient, not by chasing trends or shortcuts, but by crafting everything with intention.

We make our syrups in-house using ingredients we trust: Central American responsibly sourced cacao, toasted spices, and citrus zest. These soulful flavors define our drinks and set us apart.

Coffee is deeply personal to us. It sets the tone for our day, and we hope it does the same for you.

Welcome to Café Kacao.
This is how we start the day.

Ecuadorian Cacao

We proudly source our cacao from Ecuador, known for its rare Nacional varietal. This chocolate is darker due to its genetics and tastes naturally sweeter at 75% cocoa, thanks to a unique fermentation process that enhances the beans' sugar content. Its lower cocoa butter level gives it a thick, fudgy texture.

This particular cacao has won awards from:
The Academy of Chocolate, Sofi, and Good Food.

You can enjoy it across all our cacao based beverages or in its purest form as a 6 ounce serving of cacao and water, with milk available upon request.

Drink is available as a hot beverage.

At Café Kacao, we believe that quality ingredients start at the source.

That's why we proudly serve milk from Marak Family Farms, a family-owned dairy in Meeker, Oklahoma. Their cows are pasture raised, spending their days grazing freely under the Oklahoma sun. This humane and natural approach not only supports animal welfare, it results in rich, creamy milk.

It's a small detail that makes a big difference, and one more way we bring you honest, thoughtfully sourced food and drink straight from the farm to our table.
