OLD TRAFFORD

Towering over Cathedral Gardens, the Urbis houses Manchester's National football Museum a shrine to the fierce, world-famous rivalry between two of football's greatest clubs, City and United. Sculpted to echo the building's bold triangular geometry, six distinct floors, and sweeping glass windows, this dessert is a sweet nod to Manchester's sporting soul.

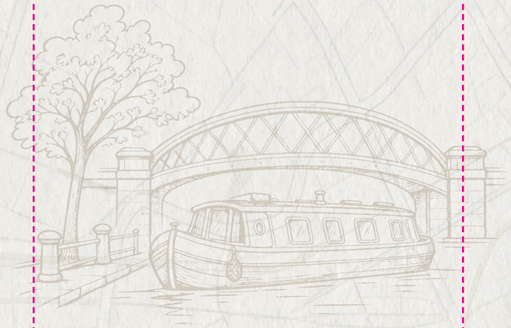

MANCHESTER CENTRAL

Inspired by Manchester Central's 1880 railway heritage, when steam trains arrived beneath its famous soaring arch. The curved silhouette and striking black-and-white swirl of white chocolate and toasted black sesame echo the monochrome drama of this Victorian architectural masterpiece.

MANCHESTER SHIP CANAL

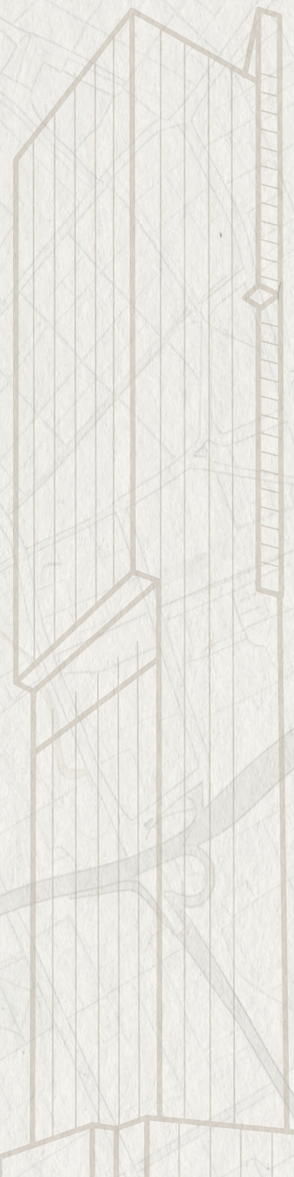

Opened in 1894, the Manchester Ship Canal connected our landlocked city to the oceans of the world. Merchant ships sailed straight into the heart of the city carrying exotic cargo from across the globe.
The bright, aromatic notes of cardamom, lime, and lemongrass celebrate those historic spice routes and the rich, global heritage that still flows through Manchester today.

His becoming the first person to split the atom is celebrated at the nearby Science and Industry Museum to this day. Our rich dark chocolate mousse mirrors the shape and deep colours of that breakthrough moment in modern science.
